This way you can actually prove that you are the best player in the game. To make the gameplay more difficult and engaging for the user, the manufacturers have designed the game with different types of license that can be won by the player after successful completion of the difficulty levels during the game. Each license will test its own specific skills and you can drive anything from a car to a bus to a truck. If you have what it takes to win them all, then try your hand on the game modes. If the game can provide the player with a realistic gaming experience, then that's half the battle already won and the makers do it by designing the best audio playback for the game which, for once, doesn't make you feel like you're playing a virtual game.
